Downing Renewables and Infrastructure - Annual Overview from QuotedData

20th May 2024

Fundamental story to drive returns

By almost every measure, Downing Renewables and Infrastructure Trust (DORE) has delivered above expectations since its IPO in December 2020. A net asset value (NAV) total return of 33% over this period highlights the already strong performance of the trust and there remains significant scope for the asset value to compound further as the portfolio develops.

Negative sentiment towards renewable infrastructure and the UK market more broadly has meant this performance is yet to translate into meaningful returns for shareholders. However, given the already impressive development of the portfolio, a progressively increasing dividend, and its growth prospects going forward, we believe there is a significant opportunity for shares to re-rate.
